SERVICES ARE OFFERED IN TWO WAYS...

CORE SERVICES

We provide a range of tailored information services to facilitate knowledge-sharing between specialists within DFID and externally in the development community. This includes the following:

- Helpdesk Service: provision of technical support to DFID, for example document requests, reviews and syntheses of academic and development agency literature, concept development and sample Terms of Reference (ToR).
- Document Database: a library of research and other publications, reviewed and summarised, with access to full texts, and representing the latest high-quality research and comment.
- Organisations Database: with relevant organisations, their fields of interest and contact details.
- Training and Events Database: with details of off-the-shelf training courses as well as details of relevant conferences and seminars taking place worldwide. This database will also contain information on the DEW Point Resource Centre tailored training service and briefing service (contactable under the Commissioned Services, see below).
- E-mail Bulletin: a monthly newsletter announcing the latest news items of interest to DFID and its partners in developing countries.

WHAT WE CAN DO FOR YOU

DEW Point has been established to generate and disseminate knowledge on behalf of DFID staff and their development partners in the areas of environment, water and sanitation under four thematic groupings:

environment

climate change

water resources

water and sanitation

COMMISSIONED SERVICES

We assist in the identification, contracting and management of individuals and teams of specialists to undertake specific programme assignments, research or training (or other activities) on behalf of DFID and their partners. These services are managed by DEW Point against ToR drawn up for each assignment.
