How you could help

Food for Good is your way of helping poor communities have food for good. Ensuring families in developing countries have access to food is a principle aim of Practical Action and very simply, by getting involved, you can make a difference to people's lives. Your friend has invited you for a meal in order to support Practical Action. Below are some example of how your donation could help. For more examples, ask your host!

- £5 could provide a pack of vital seeds to families in Zimbabwe where erratic rainfall causes crops to fail, transforming the lives of so many families.
- £8 could buy a fireless cooker for a family in Kenya, saving valuable time that can be spent generating an income. This ingenious device is also environmentally friendly and reduces deadly smoke inhalation.
- £20 could buy a goat for a family in Sudan, providing enough milk to keep a whole family healthy.
- £33 could provide a family in Bangladesh with a floating garden. Having lost land to the floods families have nowhere to grow food, this simple raft allows them to plant vegetables to eat and sell at market.
