

Peanut processing, Zimbabwe

Using the Internet for Food for Good food for good

How the internet can get you started

You can of course send a regular invitation and ask your guests to bring their donation to your dinner party. However, if you fancy doing things a little more hi-tech, why not use one of the following websites?

- Create your own dinner page on the site and it will automatically email invites to your friends. It will explain to them the purpose of your meal and all the details.
- Your guests can then visit your page, to reply and can donate online using their debit or credit card—avoiding the need to ask for the money and the hassle of handling cash.
- Dinner4Good will also arrange the collection of Gift Aid and all donation will be sent to Practical Action.

To set up your page visit:

www.dinner4good.com/PracticalAction

- Simply set up your page, add photos and write a bit about what you're doing.
- Share your page with your friends by email, on Facebook or wherever you like. They can donate by credit or debit card, or through PayPal.
- You're friends can RSVP by leaving you a message on your page.
- Any donations and gift aid will come through to Practical Action without you having to handle any money.

To set up your page visit:

www.justgiving.com/practicalaction/raisemoney

Please note that each site charges commission for donations, please see websites for details