Contested Space
Street Trading, Public Space, and Livelihoods in Developing Countries
Edited by Alison Brown

• This book breaks new ground in linking literature on the informal economy, urban livelihoods, and public space. Based on a research study for developing cities – Dar es Salaam, Kumasi, Maseru, and Kathmandu – it explores the survival strategies of street traders and their relationships with city governments. It concludes by exploring the practical and policy implications for pro-poor street management and is essential reading for all those interested in innovative city governance.

Confronting the Crisis in Urban Poverty
Making Integrated Approaches Work
Edited by Lucy Stevens, Stuart Coupe, and Diana Mitlin

• An up-to-date analysis of the problem and characteristics of urban poverty.
• Addresses the political challenge of the low profile of urban development in current global debates.
• A systematic comparative analysis of a range of approaches to urban development supported by leading NGOs: how successful have these been in tackling the multi-dimensional nature of urban poverty, in comparison with neighbouring settlements where no interventions have taken place? Was the approach cost-effective, and what is the potential for spreading the approach?

Land, Rights and Innovation
Improving Tenure Security for the Urban Poor
Edited by Geoffrey Payne
• Examines the complex issues surrounding land tenure, and the challenges they present for urban planners in the South and in the transitional economies of Eastern Europe.
• Based on extensive research bringing together a diverse range of examples from 17 countries where the authorities, non-governmental organizations, or communities have evolved practical, innovative approaches to providing tenure for the urban poor. These widen the choices available for residents, encourage local investment to reduce poverty, and facilitate the development of more equitable and efficient urban land markets.

2002 • 352 Pages • £15.95

Communities and Communication
Shaping Urban Partnerships
Elizabeth Riley and Patrick Wakely
• Compares three great cities of the South: Nairobi, Colombo and Rio de Janeiro, to explore how local government interacts with the communities of the cities, and to discover how communication can lead to partnership.
• Explores what partnership means, arguing that it is a relationship based on an agreement to share both benefits and risks. Partnership thus depends upon a high level of trust. Trust depends upon understanding. Understanding depends upon communication—the ability to transfer comprehension and information.
